

UCJCI PEACE CAMPAIGN CONTINUES

PEACE IN THE CONGREGATION

Readings: Psalm 133 and Ephesians 4:1-4

Peace in the Congregation should be assumed as a 'given'. After all, are we not called to be 'peacemakers' and do we not possess the 'spirit of peace'? Yet not only in today's Church but in the New Testament Church, Paul found it necessary to encourage believers to maintain the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace.

The historical Church has also had divisions. The Great schism in the Church started as challenges around universality versus orthodoxy, differences in language – Latin versus Greek, use or none use of icons and the supremacy of the Pope. These may seem simple to us today, but they certainly led to great controversies and the divide between the Eastern and the Western Church.

The Reformation intensified when Martin Luther nailed the ninety-five theses on the church door in Wittenberg, Germany. Some argue that Luther had no intention to divide the church but rather to have the church address the inconsistencies that existed. However, today as a result of Luther's action, we have the protestant denominations and the Roman Catholic Church.

Paul, in Ephesians 4, encouraged the church to maintain unity and peace. What does that mean for us today? How relevant is the need for unity and peace in the Church today?

- Issues that divide us in the Church are sometimes trivial, yet because of stubbornness, power, pride, lack of faith and insincerity of motive- we hold on to our 'way' and our 'traditions'. Sometimes our very praise of God becomes the contentious issue, and many have taken the long walk away from the church, as unfortunately, we tend to alienate those whose views are different.
- Malice, gossip, criticism, lack of encouragement, a judgmental attitude and the inability to forgive can destroy a Congregation. As Christians these are not the gifts we should possess. – Galatians 5: 22-23 offers us the fruit of the spirit - love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control.
- We bring the societal stratifications of social class, race, ethnicity, gender, economics and political ideology into the Church and allow them to divide us. We court hypocrisy when we marginalize and dehumanize others who are different from us. We say the Church doors are open to all, but many have had our doors closed in their faces. We need to do much better!
- We must be cognizant that the triune God- Father, Son and Holy Spirit by nature invites us to be at peace with each other. Jesus prayed in John 17: 20-22 that we may be one as 'He and the Father are one'. It therefore behoves us to be at one with each other within the local Congregation and with the ecumenical partners.

- If the premise of our religion is God's love for the world (John 3:16) then within the body of Christ, we must not only exhibit love but our attitude towards each other must be one of peace and unity. We must strive to remain 'one in the spirit and one in the Lord'.
- We have a story to tell the nation and souls to win for Christ. We therefore cannot be divided amongst ourselves. In today's world we are called to be light and salt and to set the example of goodness. If we cannot achieve peace, how can we expect peace in the world? The world is watching and is awaiting the our 'peace living' ways.
- Let us resolve to make a change and usher in the peace of God into the house of God. Let's not bring the havoc in the world into the church, but rather let us take the peace Christ offers into the world!
- Prayer - John 17: 20-22
